

Release Source: David J Rodger

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Launch of 1st Edition of “Shadows of the Quantinex”: where characters can discover the truth about Yellow Dawn and have a chance to get even.

BRISTOL, UK—APRIL, 2009— In Shadows of the Quantinex the characters are approached by the Chief of Security for a major corporate family. The job is described in brush-strokes as: counter-extortion, physical intimidation and research. It leads to a dead body in a hotel room and an orgy of evidence. The client is looking for PR damage control.

In Yellow Dawn the Earth has been ravaged by viral pathogens, leaving billions dead or mutated into mindless creatures that lurk in abandoned cities, killing or infecting those desperate enough to scavenge for resources there. Ten years later, a handful of cities have bounced back and survivor settlements sprung up across the New Wilderness bringing renewed hope.

As Shadows of the Quantinex unfolds, characters will see all this hope is about to be snuffed out as a new threat looms. The characters are pressed into a tense race against time to stop five apocalyptic cataclysms, during which they will also have an opportunity to deliver retribution on the perpetrators of Yellow Dawn.

Shadows of the Quantinex is suitable for 2 to 6 experienced characters with access to moderate-to-high level of technology and some transport. It is likely to take over 100 hours to conclude.

David J Rodger is publishing all of his work through Lulu, the world’s fastest-growing provider of print-on-demand books. He came to Lulu because he wanted to be in control of the publishing process and found Lulu’s print-on-demand service provided immediate access to a global market, with no up-front fees, handled logistics and delivered a high quality physical product.

Link to Publication: <http://www.lulu.com/content/2216451>

Feedback from some of the play-testers: * In short: great game. Bloody complicated story, but lots of fun * Great fun but also with genuine moments of creepiness, tension and paranoia to balance the fun out. Awesome. Well done. * An epic voyage into the heart of darkness. 9 out of 10. * I enjoyed this way more than Masks of Nyarlathotep.

ABOUT AUTHOR

David J Rodger was born in Newcastle Upon Tyne in 1970. He has published four novels (fiction) and is the creator of YELLOW DAWN, a successful role playing game based on the world formed by his books such as God Seed, Dante’s Fool, Iron Man Project and Edge. He has written freelance non-fiction for UK magazines and had short stories published in the UK, US and Canada. His presence on the Internet got him a place in a BBC documentary in 2000, ‘Through The Eyes of the Young.’ He spent 8 years working for a government agency, within the IT Division, developing a virtual communications service, before moving into commercial project management for a UK media company. He now lives in Bristol with a Braun coffee-maker, writing from a house on a hill with a view of the Earth’s curve.

###

MEDIA CONTACT: David J Rodger, E:clovenfeet@hotmail.com, W: davidjrodger.com